

At Reinhart, we understand the complexities faced by privately-held businesses.

Leveraging the experience of practitioners from multiple disciplines within the firm, we are committed to helping families grow and preserve their assets.

Reinhart's legal services span the entire continuum of a business lifecycle, with a particular specialty in early-stage, growing companies. From entity formation, to growth, to mergers and acquisitions, to divestitures, Reinhart attorneys appreciate and understand the unique challenges faced by expanding businesses, especially those that are family-owned. The depth and breadth of our team, combined with decades of experience in practicing business law, allow us to provide exceptionally informed counsel while helping clients navigate through the many considerations unique to family businesses.

Taking a holistic approach, attorneys from Reinhart's Corporate Law, Real Estate, Tax, and Trusts and Estates practices regularly counsel business owners and management to consider succession planning from a comprehensive perspective. We view succession planning as an ongoing process to build value, with an eye on a possible future event resulting in ownership and/or management succession.

Should an asset be sold or acquired, our firm is uniquely suited to handle the most important details. We understand the magnitude of a decision to divest or acquire a business, which is why we provide thoughtful counsel at every stage of a liquidity event. Starting with pre-transactional planning before a business or other asset is sold and continuing through the intergenerational wealth transfer process, we serve as trusted counsel and close advisers.

Our attorneys listen carefully to our clients before arriving at creative, yet practical ways to help family-owned businesses solve problems and capitalize on opportunities—always delivered in a cost-effective and responsive manner. At Reinhart, we work hard to earn the long-standing relationships we enjoy by consistently adding unique value and delivering exceptional outcomes.
